

Planet Waves Weekly Horoscope for June 4, 2026 by Eric Francis

ARIES

You can afford to feel safe. I know this seems like a risk in the current iteration of our planet, but for you at least, it's true and it's true right now. Even if there seems to be some conflict in your environment or a clash of realities that's sending the sparks flying, you're safe within yourself if you're true to who you are. It's also essential that you feel secure and confident within your physical space. In truth you probably are, though that is something to aspire to every day of your life. Frequently people find themselves in living situations where they cannot 'be themselves'. Sometimes you have to push this to find out whether it's true. If you share a space, you must occupy that space and settle into it as a conscious exploration. Let your loving and positive feelings, your trust and generosity lead the way.

TAURUS

Your situation would seem less complex if you allowed yourself to feel rather than trying to think things through.

While feelings seem to resist being put into words, fewer (rather than a lot, or none at all) is usually better. And you are feeling plenty and you seem eager to express yourself. Yet you would be speaking into a mystery, and also potentially raising the stakes of a confrontation that you don't understand. While discussions are rarely this simple, you might first compare notes on where you and a close partner are coming from. Most of the mystery you are feeling is not about their reality but about your own, and you will learn plenty from listening carefully to the words that you say. If you're trying to persuade anyone, it's likely to be yourself. But of what exactly? Most of what you need to know is plainly obvious, if you would step back and notice.

Coming Soon from Planet Waves

GEMINI

For the next few weeks your whole life will seem to be in the balance. Yet you may not be able to tell what's on the scales. I would say that it's your ability to confront the future. One of the illusions or delusions we are living through in these dark times is that there is no potential, nowhere to grow, nothing to aspire to. This campaign says that there is nothing worth doing except to fill in time, stave off boredom or indulge in luxury: a nonstop advertisement for giving up. In this environment, futility is the ultimate temptation. I've observed that the most serious problem we face is social: the way that relationships have been reshaped by over-immersion in technological 'solutions' to nonexistent problems. This has imposed itself on every relationship in the world. You are in a position to bring awareness, creativity and good vibes into this seemingly hopeless situation.

CANCER

Having ethics can be a real pain in the ass, which is why the topic is so unpopular. But there's a far worse problem. When people see someone doing the right thing, they are inclined to think they're doing the wrong thing. When people hear someone telling the truth, they're likely to see a liar (whether this is accurate or not). I suggest you limit your inner ethical debate to considering the consequences of your actions on you and the people around you, making any adjustments, and getting on with the show. Let your mantra be fulfilling the greatest good for all concerned. Then, play to your advantages, trust who you are and what you want, and do exactly what you feel is the right thing. At this stage of your growth, you cannot afford to hesitate or guess a second time before you know if you got it right the first.

LEO

Whatever you're doing, if you do it with love, you will be protected. The combination of Mercury, Venus and Jupiter in your 12th place is like a committee of guardian angels working personally for you. You'll lose this protection if you harbor ill will toward others, or believe that for you to succeed, they must fail. That's not true, but the world as we know it loves to play the zero-sum game. This is one of the beliefs you're now being jolted out of. There's room for everyone to do their thing. Such is not a 'communist' idea but rather an affirmation that there's plenty of energy to go around; and more than enough opportunity for everyone. That is, unless you believe that there must be winners and losers. What exactly are you trying to accomplish? What do you have to offer that only you can give? That's the place to focus your creativity.

VIRGO

Is there one person who is always the source of consequences? If so, what's this about? An unusual, even once in a lifetime pattern in your chart is pushing you to open your mind to the wider possibilities of who you are. Consider that you attach to life situations in order to maintain a limited experience of yourself. Then it seems like the limits are coming from the outside, or that the narrow view of who you are is a judgment imposed on you by someone else. A confrontation, inner or outer, may arise when you acknowledge that you are more than whatever limits you experience. One of the ways you're set up to break free is in your vocation or professional calling. Yet this will summon a high degree of responsibility, for self and others, that extends far outside of your household or social sphere. Are you ready?

LIBRA

Whatever you do, make sure that you don't think you know something when you don't. True, that mental mode is more popular than cotton candy at the county fair. But it's a trap and like cotton candy, will give you only a sugar high and no knowledge or wisdom. It's far better to imagine that you don't know, and let your curiosity drive you to collect clues and make observations. What's so great about false certainty? And how much certainty do you need to make a decision? What will help you is the ability to look at a wide field of experience and spot patterns in the seeming chaos. This is not about seeing what you want to see but rather noticing what is so. Any valid pattern will start to repeat in bold ways as you notice its existence. Then you get to decide what you do with the information.

SCORPIO

The current Venus-Jupiter connection is inviting you to make a wish. By that I mean a big wish for how you want your life to be, and perhaps what you want for others. You might, though, wish them happiness and success generally, and stick to your own personal goals and desires for the specifics. There is an image in your chart suggesting that what you believe is what you perceive to be true; and if you don't believe something, you're unlikely to even notice that it exists. As you open your mind, the range of possibilities will expand. You'll see that you have the option to choose more of what you want. But go beyond that: what do you want beyond any sense that it's even possible? Where would you go if you could go anywhere? And if you could be bestowed with knowledge and love of the truth, would you accept it?

SAGITTARIUS

Uranus moving across your 7th house of relationships and your overall environment may seem to present distractions: unusual people showing up, social opportunities and feeling the chaos of society. There's another side to this transit, which is that you have room to experiment and explore and go largely unnoticed. This is the time to stand up and take some risks. The positive side of the equation is that you will not draw special attention to yourself. The other side of the equation is that if you want attention, it will be harder to find in such a chaotic environment where nobody much pays attention to anything for very long. I suggest working with the first quality, and allow yourself out of your various shells and containers and see how far you can let yourself go in testing out a concept as artist, creator or entrepreneur. The business plan is another matter.

CAPRICORN

Open your heart, your mind and your eyes and you will see how much the world is offering you. But to experience it, you need to crawl out of your shell, both psychically and physically. Begin with psychic and experiment with being open to receive. Trust what is offered to you, particularly in the form of good vibes, positive affirmation, acceptance and love in any form. Your whole exercise is about receiving and absorbing. This is challenging for many people who have had skimpy upbringings or who have been conditioned to set their expectations to extra low mode. A Course in Miracles reminds us: "You do not ask too much from life, but far too little." Any remedy would begin with asking, and asking to be open to receive. Then it's helpful to remind yourself to stay open while you engage with life: people, creatures, ideas and situations.

AQUARIUS

Perhaps the truest words in the Bible are, "By their works you shall know them." This is a measure of leadership, a reality check and common sense. The spiritual life is not about what you think or believe; it's about what you do and what you create. This is more controversial than it would seem on the surface; many spiritual traditions (especially Christian) insist that what God wants is for us to believe and not act on the basis of faith. This is so ridiculous I don't have words for it, but I will try. It's essential to do what is right; to offer what you have; to speak truthfully; and to be generous. Essential for what and to whom? I would say: essential to a sane existence, wherein you know for sure you're not the only person on the planet. Essential, meaning that you are part of a greater whole.

PISCES

Be bold and act as if the universe is set up in your favor and to your benefit. This is as good of an assumption as any, though with Venus and Jupiter forming a conjunction in your fellow water sign Cancer, you make your presence on the planet known. This seems to be the real challenge: though there are exceptions, you tend to be a more reclusive, retiring type who prefers to stay behind the scenes. If so, this is the time to be out of character, or rather, to fully inhabit your character. If you have a choice to do something or not do something, and you're wondering which way luck will tip the scales, this is one of those rare moments when it's entirely preferable to trust in luck. That said, if you're of child-bearing age or connected to someone who is, this is an ideal week to create a pregnancy. And if not a baby, an idea.

Published by Planet Waves

PlanetWaves.net

(845) 481-5616

Planet Waves